The Games we Played

The Golden Age of Board & Table Games
from the New-York Historical Society's Liman Collection
New York Historical Society - NY, NY

Donated to the Society in 2000, the Liman collection numbers over 500 American Board and Table games. For the Limans (an artist and attorney) the appeal of the games lay both in their extensive designs, vivid colors and overall aesthetic impression, as well as their reflection of American history and popular culture. The cube includes a detailed historical text about the origins of American board games, as well as beautiful brightly colored images of game boards, packaging and graphics.
